

THE AIA EDUCATION HONOR AWARDS

MODERATOR: ELLEN SCANLAN CATHEY, AIA DIRECTOR OF EDUCATION

Recipients of the 2003 AIA Education Honor Awards, a program of the AIA Educator/Practitioner Net (EPN), will present examples of work from their award-winning courses or projects. The purpose of this awards program is to recognize the achievement of outstanding educators and to increase professional and public awareness of models of excellence in classroom, studio, community-based service learning, or laboratory work.

The submissions were evaluated on the basis that they be exceptional and innovative courses/projects that:

- deal with broad issues, particularly in cross-disciplinary collaboration and/or within the broader community;
- contribute to the advancement of architecture education;
- have the potential to benefit and/or change practice; and
- promote models of excellence that can be appropriated by other educators.
